

Creating an Email Signature in Outlook 2013

In order to create an email signature that contains your actual handwritten signature, you will need to scan a copy of your signature into the computer and save it in a picture format (jpg, png, bmp, tiff, etc.). Alternatively, you may also draw your signature in an image editing program such as Microsoft Paint. Instructions for Outlook 2013 are shown below.

1. Open Outlook and click New E-mail.

2. Click the Signature dropdown, and click the Signatures... option.

3. The Signatures and Stationery window appears. Under the E-mail Signature tab, click the

New button. You will be prompted to choose a name for your new signature

 Your scanned handwritten signature should now appear in your email signature. Change the default signature for New messages and Replies/forwards to the signature you just created.

This will apply the signature automatically when you create a new email, reply or forward. Click

OK when you are finished editing and your new signature will be saved.
